2023-03-19	2030	History	Lost City Of Gaul: Unearthing Bibracte	Premiere	Lost City Of Gaul: Unearthing Bibracte		0	In the heart of the French region of Burgundy, deep in a forest, lies a hidden city that had been dormant for 2,000 years. It's called Bibracte, the most important oppidum in all of Gaul. That is where the Aedui, a Gallic tribe allied to the Romans, once built a fortified city on top of a mountain. What did this 10,000-inhabitant ancient city look like? How did the builders manage to erect indestructible fortifications at a time when no other Gallic city featured such protection? How did archaeologists decipher old pieces of wood despite the wear and tear of Father Time? And why did the Aedui suddenly abandon their capital? Thanks to topographic maps using LIDAR technology as well as spectacular computer-generated imagery, you're about to discover the evidence of galloping Romanisation, notably through a sophisticated hydraulic system, a forum, and a basilica. Surprisingly, Cuba was one of the first countries in the world to build a railway, starting all the way back in 1837. At the time, Cuba was the world's largest sugar producer, and its early railways were designed not with passengers mainly in mind, but to transport sugarcane to the mills, and refined sugar to the ports. 2023-03-22	1930	History	Big Ben Restored: The Grand Unveiling	Premiere	Big Ben Restored: The Grand Unveiling		0	The greatest clock tower in the world has undergone the most extraordinary and extensive renovation in history. Presiding over the House of Commons, Big Ben is not only the most iconic landmark on London's skyline, but it is also a timeless piece of architecture that symbolises Britain's democratic heritage. However, after more than a century of exposure to pollution and the elements, not to mention a near miss during the Blitz, Big Ben, or the Elizabeth Tower as it's properly known, has been in dire need of repair. In 2017, the bells were silenced, and the world's most famous clock tower was shrouded in scaffolding, to begin the process of restoring Big Ben to its original glory. The unique access documentary Big Ben Restored: The Grand Unveiling goes behind the scaffolding to tell the extraordinary story of the six-year renovation. Director of Landmark Trust Anna Keay bears witness to every step of the process. She meets the dedicated team of architects, engineers, historians, scientists, and master craftspeople who are tasked with stripping the tower down to its frame, then repairing or replacing every exquisite detail of this neo-Gothic masterpiece.
